

The Scientific Method is the way that scientists study the world around them and learn things.

